Justice Goetting Wrestling with the Tompkins Case.

Justice Goetting, of Williamsburg, is wrestling with the evidence in the muchanised Tompkins abandonment case, and expects to render a decision to-morrow. The testimony yesterday developed that Elizabeth Boesel was married thirteen years ago to Martin Heymer, who shortly after was sent to the penitendary. Before his incarceration he told her had two other wives living.

piled for his wife when she married the second time.
So far as could be learned, Martin Heymer had four wives, and all of them were in court. Mrs. Heymer-Tompkins ranked as No. 3. If Mrs. Tompkins No. 1 was not the legal wife of Heymer, then she was the legal wife of Tompkins, and consequently he committed bigamy in marrying the second time.
On the other hand, if she is the legal wife of Heymer, she committed bigamy in marrying Tompkins. In that case Tompkins's marriage to her was illegal and his second marriage consequently when pay-ay comes the men are so crazed with liquor that they become gesperadues.

They assault women and children indiscriminately, rob men and boys and almost run riot in the neighborhood.

A few days ago a young man named Dolan, while walking from Shadyside to Guttenburg with his sister, was set upon by a gang of the rufflane, badily beater, and kicked in the head and body. They caught his sister and attempted to drag her into the bushes. She broke loose from them and succeeded in escaping. Dolan, when he got to his feet, alarmed his assailants by his cries for help, and they ran away. Peter Morris, colored, last Monday got drunk and ran amuck at Shidyside. He was set upon by a crowd and badly beaten.
